Management Development

Businesses need people who are skilled and equipped to do not just their current job, but who are able to adapt and develop to meet changing demands. The Development Partnership's management skills programmes will help your people master new techniques, adapt to changing organisational priorities and work in innovative, more productive ways.

Developed and refined over the past 20 years – these modules are engaging and practical solutions to your management development needs. We can provide ready-to-use, adapted or fully tailored solutions that meet the needs of your business within a realistic budget. We can adjust our leadership modules to make them suitable for all management levels. We also provide management development through our ILM Accredited Programmes.

Modules available include:

- Appraisal skills
- Attendance and absence management
- Building a winning team
- Challenging conversations
- Change management skills
- Effective delegation
- First time manager
- Feedback for results
- Meetings with a purpose
- Managing finance and resources
- Managing transition
- Managing virtual teams
- Middle Manager development
- Objective setting skills
- Performance management
- Recruitment and selection skills
- ILM management qualifications

The Development Partnership is the solution, offering quality, results and value for money
